Biography

Mindy's practice includes both transactional and litigation work as it relates to real property. Her transactional work focuses on land use, zoning, leasing, real estate, and renewable energy. Mindy assists clients with land acquisition, new developments, commercial and residential property, purchase and sale transactions, and renewable energy development projects. In the litigation arm of her practice, Mindy represents builders, developers, cities and individuals in resolving contract, zoning, and constitutional claims.

Mindy also dedicates her time and talents in the community, currently serving as a board member for the Friends of the Children's Justice Center (The Friends). The Friends' mission is to empower child victims of crime and their families to transform trauma into resilience. The Friends fundraise to support the Children's Justice Center program, ensuring children are able to safely tell their stories, seek justice, and find hope and healing through comprehensive wraparound services.

Mindy earned her Juris Doctorate degree from the University of Alabama School of Law. While in law school, Mindy served as the editor in chief of the Alabama Law Review. Following graduation, Mindy clerked for the Honorable Corey L. Maze in the Northern District of Alabama. Prior to law school, Mindy earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Management from Arizona State University.
